HANNA'S CONCEPTION OF POLITICAL HONOR.

"No Man in Public Office Owes the Public Anything," Wrote the McKinley Manager to David Watson of Ohio.

HE WANTED A BIG LAWSUIT DISMISSED.

Standard Oil Was Interested and Bulldozing Methods Were Used to Make Watson False to His Trust.

But the Honest Man Resisted Firmly, Refused a Lawyer's Bribe, Stood Up for McKinley and Is Now Out in the Cold.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 11.—"No man in public office owes the public anything," wrote that sentiment in a letter to David Watson, who at that time was Attorney-General of Ohio, and a Republican politician who has since served creditably in Congress. Hanna has since become a public man, and the quoted expression is a clear intimation into his real character.

The letter was a bulldozing attempt to prevent Watson from suing to annul the charter of the Standard Oil Co. Its publication has created a big sensation, as it has brought out the additional confession that a New York lawyer came here, so it is alleged, with $100,000 in cash to bribe Watson.

Neither the bulldozer nor the briber was successful. Watson was then the friend of President McKinley. He was promised great things by McKinley and worked loyally for him. He is still waiting.

He has been turned down by Hanna and the Standard Oil Co. The President thus acknowledges his debt to the bulldozers and the bribe-givers; the Republican Administration is revealed in its true colors. One result of this duplicity and cowardice has been the arraying of Watson's friends against Hanna. They may support him, but his defeat would give them great joy.

The story of the affair reveals a remarkable state of official depravity.

When the suit was pending, Watson went to New York. In the Gilecy House an old friend now living there called, saying he had been asked to talk over the matter and see if the suit could not be dismissed.

"Let me explain to you, Watson, that this Standard Oil Co. has nearly as much power as the Government of the United States. It has more money than many of the smaller governments of the earth."

Watson was not tempted, and he informed his friend that "nothing could be done to stop the progress of the action."

A few months later, while the suit was still pending, Watson was again in New York. He met his railroad friend again and was asked:

"Well, Watson, have you been tempted lately?"

"Not that I know of," said he.

JUDGE DAY TO TAKE CHARGE.

Important Information to Be Kept From the Secretary and Messages to Be Censored.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11.—Wm. R. Day, First Assistant Secretary of State, will return here immediately and assume personal supervision over the department of which he has been for some time the practical head. He will sacrifice his vacation at the request of President McKinley.

The chaotic condition of affairs in the Department of State has reached such serious proportions as to cause grave apprehensions to the Administration.

While Judge Day was away Secretary Sherman, unexpectedly and greatly to the perturbation of his associates, returned to this city at the expiration of a fortnight, and said that he would take no additional vacation during the summer.

Beginning with the Post-Dispatch representative, who accompanied him from Amagansett, he gave through the public press a series of interviews on all the diplomatic questions supposed to be in abeyance. He discussed the overthrow of the monarchy in Spain and the establishment of a republic; warned the Japanese that their warships might never get any further than the bottom of the harbor of Honolulu; served notice on Great Britain that she would be checked in attempting to assume guardianship over the seal fisheries and gold mines of the great Northwest, and declared in general terms that the Government of the United States would pursue its own policy despite the protests and opinions of all the other nations.

These utterances were patriotic, but in diplomatic circles were declared to be highly indiscreet.

When these publications had attracted the attention of all Christendom and provoked much bitter criticism from the foreign press, Mr. Sherman gave a sweeping denial and characterized the interviews, without exception, as manufactured.

Now comes the request for the speedy return of Day, who will try to prevent the giving of further affront to foreign nations.

Every possible precaution has been taken of late to keep Secretary Sherman from obtaining intelligence, the publication of which might prove detrimental to the Government and department.

Instructions have been given that all cablegrams and messages addressed "Sherman" shall be delivered to W. H. Michael, chief clerk, instead of being sent to Sherman's residence.

Senator Sherman has had sensational interviews with the Portuguese, Spanish and Nicaraguan Ministers.

His lack of discretion has become more noticeable, even than his forgetfulness, though the latter is pitiable indeed.

When informed of the death of Premier Canovas he inquired as to his identity and position; when asked what action was being taken regarding the protest of the Nicaraguan Government against the seizure of the vessel of Capt. Merry, he said that he had never heard of Capt. Merry. Not long ago he desired to be given the name of the assistant who had been acting Secretary of State during his absence.

The denials given by Secretary Sherman to the interviews had with him since his return from Amagansett largely lose every effect from the fact that in almost every instance the sensational utterances were made in the presence of witnesses.

REV. TUOHY IS REMOVED.

WARNED TO KEEP SILENT.

The Vicar General Acted as Administrator in the Absence of Archbishop Kain.

ACTION A GENERAL SURPRISE.

It Was Thought the Prosecution of the Priest Had Ceased When the Archbishop Left Town.

Rev. J. T. Tuohy, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, has been removed.

Notice was served on him Wednesday afternoon by Vicar-General Muehlsiepen, acting administrator of the diocese.

Word was sent to Fr. Tuohy to appear Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Vicar General's residence and hear the sentence of the Investigating Committee.

The Vicar General signed this communication as judge delegate, although while the body was in session, its unofficial character was strongly advertised.

In the body of the communication the judge delegate referred Fr. Tuohy to a passage in the decree of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore—the church law of the diocese—warning priests against giving publicity to ecclesiastical affairs.

It was an intimation to the priest to take his medicine and keep quiet.

News of the removal comes as a general surprise.

It was thought when Archbishop Kain sailed for Europe without pronouncing sentence that Fr. Tuohy had won his case before the Investigating Committee and that the matter would be let drop.

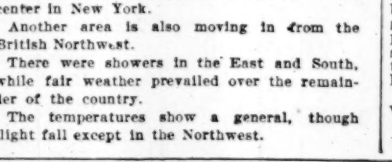

Once the Archbishop left the diocese the canonists reckoned that he could not compass the removal during his absence, as he has no jurisdiction beyond the confines of his see.

They reckoned without their host. No one

BELLEVILLE'S SHERIFF BUSY.

THE MEN OBEYED SULLENLY.

ANOTHER HELD ALL NIGHT.

Strikers Determined to Go to Murphysboro and the Railroad Insists That They Shall Walk.

The strike situation around Belleville looked more threatening Wednesday morning than at any time since the coal miners quit work. Word came from Wildermain Station that a band of strikers had held up an Illinois Central freight train and would not let it proceed.

Sheriff Philip Rhein was appealed to. At 6 o'clock he sent Peter Jaffray out to summon a posse.

Not many men were on the streets. Wherever they were found, whether on their way to catch early trains or going to work, they were commanded to report at once at the sheriff's office.

At 6:30 forty men had responded to the imperative summons. Preparations were in progress to start for Wildermain when word came that the train had been released and the posse was not needed.

Sheriff Rhein told the men they were not needed, but warned them that he would probably need them later.

The summoning of the posse was the climax of a night of excitement.

About 300 strikers met in the West End at dusk Tuesday night and marched out toward Walnut Hill Cemetery.

This was a ruse to make the authorities believe they were going to walk to Murphysboro. Near the cemetery they broke ranks and crept back into the Illinois Central yards.

They concealed themselves until the south-bound fast freight pulled into the yard at that time. They then dashed out of the shadows and scattered all over the train. Some lay flat on top of the box cars, others got on the trucks after the train stopped. All tried to conceal themselves, but they had been seen.

Agent J. J. Haldinger telephoned to Mayor Winkler. He notified the sheriff. Sheriff Rhein and Detectives Barnickel and Burke reached the depot about the same time the Mayor did.

The sheriff said he could do nothing until the municipal authorities had exhausted their resources.

Mr. Haldinger demanded protection from Mayor Winkler. The Mayor went to the Police Station and had the riot call sounded on the Market Square fire bell. This was the signal for the policemen to report at once from the nearest box. As fast as they did so they were ordered to the depot. In a few minutes they were all on the spot.

Headed by the Mayor they searched the train and ordered the strikers off. The trespassers sullenly obeyed.

The train was backed up. The strikers followed it and when it started ahead a great many climbed on it again. The train was stopped again.

Seven or eight times this was repeated. Once the train was backed beyond the bridge across Richland Creek. But each time some strikers managed to get on.

They lay flat on top of the box cars, but were always discovered by a railroad employee who was perched on the iron ladder at the signal station, and the train each time was called back.

The men were in an ugly mood then when they held up a train two weeks before. Threats were freely made and epithets were hurled at the railroad employees and the police.

About 11 o'clock seven policemen and Deputy Burke were scattered along the train. They were promised that they would be let off beyond the water tank. The train backed up once more. Only a few strikers got on the cars, but four jumped on the pilot while the engine was backing. A growl start was obtained and the train went past the station at a rate of twenty miles an hour.

It never slackened speed until Wildermain was almost reached. The seven policemen

PRETTY GIRLS AS CONDUCTORS.

Belleville Street Cars Will Have One Day of Tremendous Business.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

Young Society Women Will Take Fares and Pull the Bell Cord.

HOW IT ALL CAME ABOUT.

Fair Young Creatures Who Like to Help the Poor Made Arrangements With the Railway Company.

Oh, wake and call me early, mother. Call me early, mother dear. For I'm to have charge of a car, mother. And make eleven dollars clear.

A score of Belleville's prettiest society girls will give orders somewhat after this fashion when they retire on the night of August 11.

They are the young ladies of the Presbyterian Church. They have an organization which looks after the needs of the poor in the winter. It held a meeting the other day.

They had been talking an hour or two about the weather, with particular respect to its August aspect. There was a pause.

"Winter is coming," purred a thoughtful maid, as she drew cold comfort through a straw.

The others thought she meant the observation as a joke. They put their pretty heads together and planned how they should raise the wind.

The suggestions were many. All the art-things by which money has ever been coaxed out of masculine pockets for the good of the cause were discussed. But it was agreed that they had all been done to death.

"Let's be street car conductors," cried the maid of the earnest bevy.

There was a chorus of exclamations. A few were shocked. The rest were delighted. "But how?" they asked.

The girl who reads the papers told the rest all about it, and the timid ones got over their shock.

"An evening," they exclaimed. "Why, we want them all day."

And so it was arranged. The terms were agreed on. The whole system will be turned over to the fair ones for a whole day.

That is why a score of Belleville's prettiest girls will get up at peep of day Friday morning, August 11, and that is why they will travel over the Belleville electric line will be heavier than ever before.

There will be a separate conductor in charge of each car.

Having only a limited number of cars and not desiring to have them smashed, the officials insisted that they tried and trusted motormen manipulate the cranks, and the ladies consented to depend upon the men to that extent.

But all the regular conductors will have a day off, and the passengers will "move up in front" at the musical command of pretty society girls.

The list of conductors is not completed themselves in a new sphere when the project was first suggested, and it is feared it will not be easy to get the required number with the requisite prettiness and dexterity in making change, to say nothing of subduing unruly passengers and assisting feeble young men to alight.

In the evening there will be a big lawn party somewhere on the line.

The arrangements are in the hands of a committee of which Mrs. H. H. Sikkema is chairman.

ONE PREACHER WAS ARRESTED.

Rev. Sniff Tells How He Was Taken to the Calaboose and Finally Got His Liberty.

It is a merry, merry war between the unlicensed bicycle riders and the police. The latter are under orders to arrest all riders of unlicensed wheels and present them in the police court.

In this way Commissioner Kalbfell hopes to collect about $12,000 on 12,000 unlicensed wheels in St. Louis.

Nearly half a hundred arrests were made Tuesday night, most of them in the western portion of the city.

It may be a merry war, but the policemen are not having a merry time carrying out their orders. Those who do the laughing are the people on the street corners who witness the discomfiture of the coppers.

The average policeman is great on dignity. He gets his dignity with his star and club. If anything cuts him to the quick it is to have his dignity hurt. And the dignity of every policeman put out to catch unlicensed bicycles was hurt many times Tuesday afternoon and evening.

There were many amusing scenes enacted Wednesday morning. Not satisfied with their work Tuesday police were again stationed at the street intersections in the West End Wednesday morning. They were there early to catch the riders bound for their places of business.

At some of the intersections small crowds gathered, and every time a bicyclist outwitted or slipped away from the policeman the crowd enjoyed it.

One of the busiest corners was Jefferson avenue and Locust street. The policeman stationed there had a large contract on his hands.

Three bicyclists, came along, riding abreast, north on Jefferson avenue. They intended to turn into Locust, and the officer rode to the middle of the crossing to intercept them. They saw him and evidently knew his purpose. Instead of turning right, they pulled a little strength into their legs, scooped over to the west side of the avenue and were gone.

The policeman rapped on the street paving with his club and called on the bicyclists to stop. They whizzed by, dumped their backs and were soon out of sight.

One rider turned from the avenue into Locust street. He wore golf hose and a cycling suit. Just as the policeman reached him, he raised the wheelman's shoulder the bicyclist spurred and was ten feet away.

The policeman made a complete circle around the officer and sprinted west on Locust street. As he rode off he turned his head. He put his thumb to his nose and wiggled his fingers at the policeman.

The crowd looking on, laughed at the officer. But that wheelman had made him mad. It wasn't because of the escape, for so many of them had seen made that the officer was accustomed to them. But that wheelman had put his thumb to his nose and wiggled his fingers.

The crowd looking on, laughed at the officer. But that wheelman had made him mad. It wasn't because of the escape, for so many of them had seen made that the officer was accustomed to them. But that wheelman had put his thumb to his nose and wiggled his fingers.

For the time the chase for delinquent bicycle riders was given up. The policeman wanted revenge. He went to the telephone box and called up a policeman further out on the street. He gave his brother officer a description of the rider and begged him to arrest him.

He had the satisfaction later of learning that the rider who wiggled his fingers had been caught.

One old trick was worked by many riders on every policeman engaged in the work. The officer at Jefferson avenue and Locust street never tumbled to it until a dozen men had tried it on him.

As the riders came down the street the cop would get out to stop them. The rider pointed behind and told him the car was under the seat. The policeman permitted them to pass in order to get a rear view of them. They had no tags, but had passed him and were out of reach.

Many riders claimed that they had taken out licenses, but had neglected to put the tags on their wheels. Three of the wheelmen claimed to have left their tags at home and they were paroled by the officer. They turned back, got their tags and returning showed them to the officer.

At Channing avenue and Locust, at Grand and Lindell avenues and at Garrison and Pine the officers were stopping riders and furnishing just as much fun to the crowd as the people were getting at Jefferson and Locust. They made about twenty-five arrests Tuesday night and as many more Wednesday morning.

The license collector has accomplished his object. The riders have been stirred up by the arrests and many of them are paying the tax.

As a rule bicyclists do not object to the tax and are not seeking to avoid its payment. They agreed to pay the tax in if the money derived from it would be spent for street improvements and in a cycle path in Forest Park.

The riders of unlicensed wheels arrested Tuesday and Wednesday morning were up for trial. Twenty-five of them faced Judge Peabody.

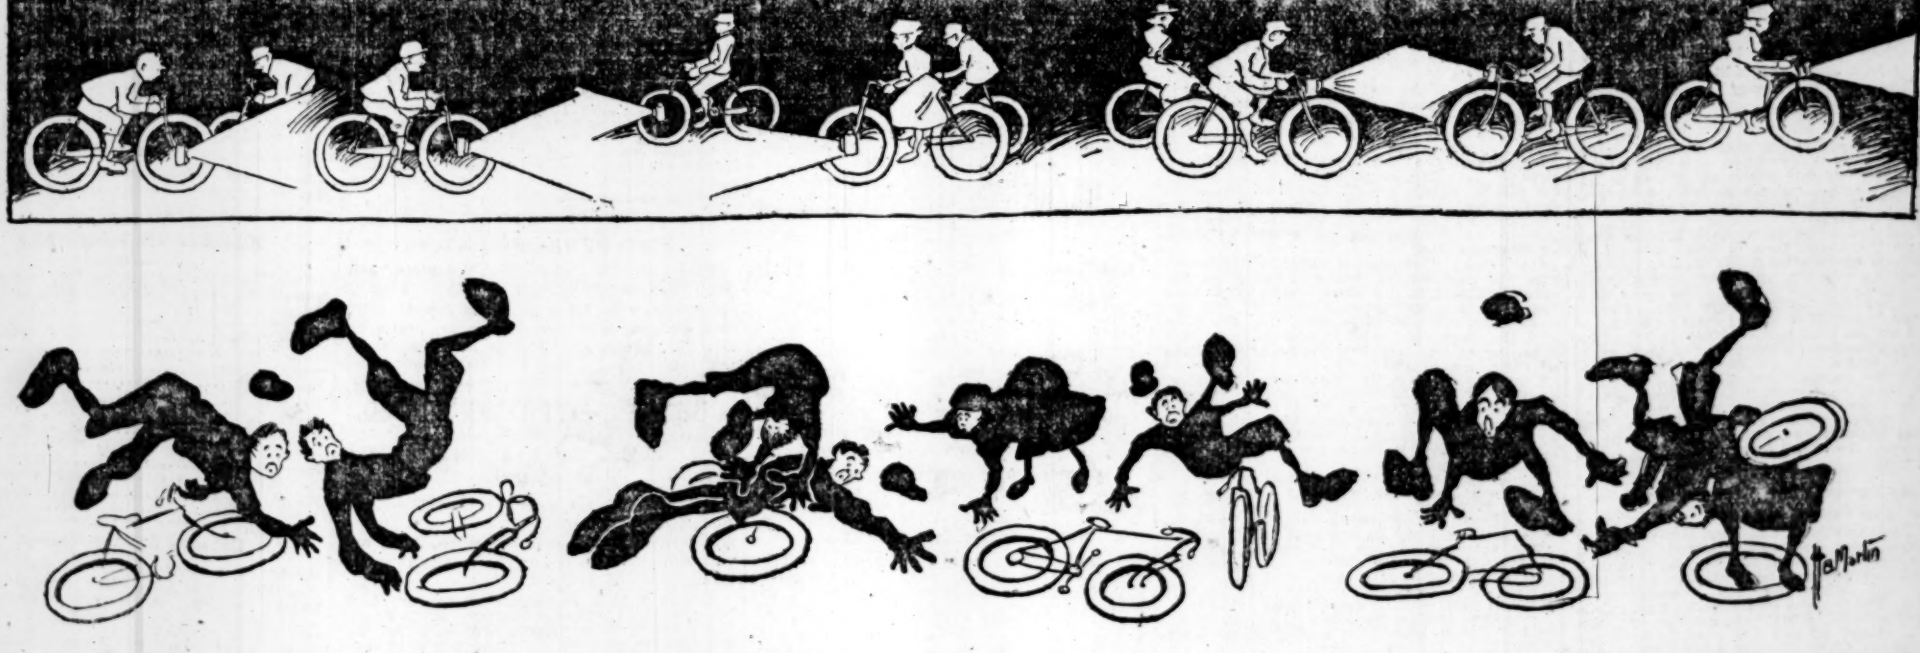

Patrick Lonergan, Ben C. Weidman, Joe Cleary, Isadore Underberger, Charles Bucher and J. F. Friesse were fined $10 each.

The case of the others were tabled before by City Attorney Clover or continued to give them an opportunity to secure the little license tag.

Those whose cases were dismissed or not prosecuted were the Rev. W. W. Burns, Jesse H. Smith, Joseph Prevost, William McAlester, Bernard Simpson, B. C. Wideman, Ed. J. Porter, Horace Benedict, Harry Miller, Otto C. Gaerner, William Schaefer, Joseph O. Saylor, Ernest J. Healy, E. E. Briggs, Russell Stanhove, William Craig, John Straub, Mitchell Straub, John Hines, Charles Beecher and Thomas A. Leitch, all wheelmen of prominence.

Mr. Hines, the architect with an office in the Chemical Building, was the first rider pulled by the police. He ran into a policeman at thirty-fourth and Locust street and was taken to the Seventh District station. He would have been locked up but for the fact that a man he never saw before went on his bond.

The Rev. Mr. Sniff is a popular preacher and an enthusiastic wheelman. Mrs. Sniff also rides. They live at 301 Eads avenue.

WELCOME RELIEF.
Not long ago the Post-Dispatch published the views of financiers, bankers, merchants and labor leaders in all parts of the country on the subject of the business situation and the outlook.

Although there were discouraging words from some labor leaders, yet in the main the views were favorable to a return of better times. The great majority of the men whose opinions were sought testified to business improvement and pointed out conditions which they thought made further improvement inevitable.

Yesterday the Post-Dispatch presented the views of four of the leading business men of St. Louis. These men testify first, to the actual beginning of exceptional activity in the wholesale business of St. Louis, and next, to faith, for which they give ample reasons, that this is a part of a general revival of prosperity.

What the public wants is the truth about the situation. The Post-Dispatch endeavors to give the actual truth. Fortunately, the truth in the main is pleasant and encouraging. It holds out the prospect of fair rewards for workers in all lines of industry. Relief from the pinch of distress will be welcome, indeed.

If the streets of St. Louis were to receive some of the attention given to finding places for ward workers they would be in much better condition.

THE POOL-ROOMS MUST GO.

The cause of public morality is but temporarily defeated. The vicious and demoralizing pool-rooms will sooner or later have to go.

Meanwhile it is the duty of all good citizens to keep up the agitation against gambling dens and to do all in their power to guard the young against their pernicious influence. Public opinion must not rest in its condemnation of this and other menaces to the morals and well-being of the community until they are abolished.

A number of citizens have called the pool-rooms public nuisances. According to Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, a nuisance is that which annoys or gives trouble and vexation. A nuisance is public when it annoys citizens in general. There can be no doubt that a majority of the citizens of St. Louis are annoyed and vexed by the continuance of gambling dens in the city.

The pool-rooms are public nuisances. They are more. They are open mouths of hell. They incite young men to lying, embezzlement, robbery from employers and parents and sometimes murder or suicide.

If the Supreme Court holds that the breeders' law is unconstitutional, such a law must be passed as will wipe out these plague spots once for all.

When seven persons are found dying with hunger in Greater New York in one week, the increased greatness of the great city cannot be doubted.

PROSPERITY'S CAUSE.

It is interesting to note that the alert business men of this city, who told the Post-Dispatch readers that good times are coming and why they thought so, made no mistake as to the cause of the turning prosperity. They trace it to the wealth of the soil, which rewards the farmer's labors and through him extends to the small merchant, thence to the wholesale merchant, to the manufacturer, to the laborer—through all the avenues of industry and commerce.

It is not from legislation, but from the product of labor and capital, that wealth and prosperity come. Legislation cannot add a dollar to the wealth of the world. The best it can do is to protect the earners in the rewards of their labor and to facilitate trade. The worst it can do is to restrict trade and interfere with the just distribution of wealth by taking it from one citizen and giving it to another.

When the Government, under a pretense of creating prosperity, gives one set of citizens the privilege of levying tribute from other citizens it merely attempts to concentrate wealth in a few hands—it fosters monopoly and creates a plutocracy.

If Mayor Ziegenhain, when he was Collector, had collected what his oath bound him to collect, there would be less need of money for the city now.

BRADY'S IMPOSITION.

In response to the repeated requests of the Post-Dispatch for the names of St. Louisans who are backing Hugh J. Brady for the Election Commissionership, Gov. Stephens has supplied us with a partial list of the indorsements sent to Jefferson City.

It is in line with the public duty which the Post-Dispatch feels bound to perform in the cause of good government to show the Governor how grossly he has been imposed upon, in the matter of these indorsements, by this unfit candidate for an office of honor and trust. This duty shall be performed.

Gov. Stephens ought to recognize that the unpleasant work the Post-Dispatch is doing in order to show him the utter unfitness and unworthiness of Brady for the office he seeks, is as much in his interest and in the interest of the Democratic party of this city as it is in the interest of the public. The appointment of had men to office—especially to such an office as that of Election Commissioners—is not only an outrage on the public, but an injury to the Executive who makes the appointment and to the party he represents.

According to ex-Gov. Churchill, the "fighting mit Sigs" at Wilson Creek was rather tame.

GREATER WORK FOR SCIENCE.

At the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Detroit, Prof. Richard T. Colburn called attention to a work that Science can perform which is more important than any work it has hitherto accomplished. That work is to make civilization symmetrical and orderly; to do away with the defects and shortcomings that are chiefly due to the "overlapping of the childhood of the world upon its adult stages."

While scientists have expended their life forces examining the nerves and antennae of useless insects, of attempting to weigh the stars, human misery has been increasing, and they have given no heed to it. Invention and industrial development have given rise to problems that demand the best intellect of the age for their solution, and the scientists have been silent.

How to make civilization symmetrical; to rearrange the chief factors of modern life so as to make life worth living—that is the most important work for Science. Will it accomplish that work?

The vigor with which License Commissioner Kalbfell is enforcing the bicycle law properly suggests to a Post-Dispatch correspondent the question, "Why does he not with the same vigor enforce the law against the owners of other classes of vehicles subject to tax?"

The question is pertinent. The same law applies to all. Why are the owners of unlicensed wheels alone arrested and rushed to jail in hoodlum wagons? Surely all the owners of other licensed vehicles have not paid taxes. Why this discrimination against wheelmen?

The one drawback to our great American joy over our large crop exports is the emphasis they give to our dependence upon European markets. We, perhaps, cannot have this year's export demand next year, or possibly for a number of years. The present crop would be a fearful glut on the home market but for Europe's temporary necessities.

St. Louis taxpayers think their taxes are high enough. It is easier for officials to increase the taxes than for the people to pay them. Possibly the tax dodging habit of some wealthy citizens should be corrected, but most people are paying quite as much as they can.

President McKinley should call down Mr. Kirchoff. His astonishing lack of information in regard to Missouri is discreditable to a statesman. By the way, the President should be out here in the autumn and replenish his own stock of important Missouri facts.

A cable car fender saved a woman's life yesterday, perhaps because the motorman had diminished the momentum of the car. But the fender and the motorman can not always be counted upon to work together.

Weyler is building a high barbed wire fence around Havana. With the barbed wire fence and the bicycle both necessary in war, American manufacturers will hesitate about lining up with the pacemakers.

It would have been well if all the counties, and not Boone alone, had yesterday celebrated the admission of Missouri to the Union. Indeed, the entire Union might well have celebrated the event.

When American farms can in one year bring $500,000,000 into the country we may well believe that the farms will not be abandoned. When the farms are abandoned the cities will soon be in ruin.

It appears that assassins choose Sunday instead of Friday for their work. Their idea seems to be that the Sabbath was made not so much for man as for killing him.

All Presidents should come West more. The East sees enough of them. Mr. McKinley ought certainly to be with us in St. Louis in October.

Had we all been as wise in 1860 as we were yesterday at Springfield, what evils and what woes would have been avoided?

The First Kiss.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It should like to get the opinion of some of your readers who have had experience as to when it is proper for a young lady to allow a young man who is courting her to give her the first kiss.

A nice young man has been visiting me for about a week. We had not got very far in the way of acquainting well as yet, but he was less than courting, as I understand it. He seemed very shy, but last night, just as he was saying good night in the hall, he suddenly kissed me on the cheek.

I was very much astonished; did not know whether to slap him or return the compliment. I pretended not to notice it, and went on talking, as if nothing had happened.

Ought I to have slapped him, or was I right in making believe that nothing unusual had happened?

Enforce the Law Impartially.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Kalbfell is proceeding very vigorously in enforcement of the laws against one class of vehicle owners. Why not enforce the laws against all? The same statute that lays a tax on bicycle owners lays it (with a few exceptions) on every other class of vehicle owners. It is well known that many few owners of vehicles have paid outside of wheelmen, and while wheelmen are being driven to the calaboose in the "hurry wagon," not even a suggestion is made to other vehicle owners that they have to pay their taxes.

As a wheelman and a tax payer who paid Mr. Kalbfell why he is thus partial in enforcement of the laws.

Effect of Consulships.

The Philly Republicans need not feel bad over the appointment of Mr. Eitinger as Consul to Montreal. It is said that "history repeats itself." Nearly every man who has in the past been appointed a United States Consul from Missouri by a Republican President has, when his term of office expired, been re-appointed by a Democrat.

W. A. Pile to California. Col. James M. Wilson to Vermont. Mr. Lazarus to New York. Mr. Wallace to Ohio. William Fox to Washington. D. C. R. Pope to New York and many others. It may be that in some parts of the country Dr. Webster would come back from the other world to see what he had done in his life.

Rights of Bulldogs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A man comes into a saloon, and after taking what he asks for and paying for same, asks proprietor if he can step into back yard.

Proprietor says, "Right back there." Bulldog of proprietor bites customer in transit, the dog being unchained and free to act according to his discretion.

"Can the party who asked privilege and permission to go 'back' and get bitten by the unchained dog, get damages to the real extent of the injury or injuries inflicted by the dog?"

"UNCLE TOM'S" CHILDREN.

A Number of Generous People Are Interested in Them.

The effort to raise a fund for the orphaned children of Louis Klein (Uncle Tom) is attracting the attention of several generous people. A number of ladies have reached the Post-Dispatch, and assurances of assistance in various ways have been given. A farmer and his wife, who are in charge of the amounts received up to date:

Mr. Klein ..... $5.00
Mrs. Klein ..... 1.00
Cash ..... 1.00

HOPE ISLAND DESOLATED.

Two Lives Lost and Property Destroyed by a Tornado.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 11.—Hope Island in Narragansett Bay has been visited by a tornado, which did great damage. Henry Aylsworth, one of the owners of the island, tells the story. He visited the place yesterday and found it completely wrecked. A farmer and his wife, who were in charge of the island, were blown away. The cottage was destroyed, wharf out in two trees blown down, and much other property swept into the bay.

RIVAL BANKERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

The National Body May Surrender to the State Organizations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The warfare that has been going on between the American Bankers' Association and the thirty-two State bankers' associations throughout the country, is expected to lead to the surrender of the national body at its annual meeting in Detroit next week.

The State association men have played a very shrewd game with their most distinguished opponent. They have organized a rival national bankers' association which bid fair to outstrip the older organization. The new association, however, did not care to give them a trial of its strength, and has been clear from a resolution that has been submitted to the executive council. It proposes an amendment of the constitution to give the State association a larger representation by providing that they shall elect fifteen out of thirty members of the executive council.

The adoption of this resolution, which, it is said, is a foregone conclusion, at the next meeting, will, at the end of two years, give the control of the American Bankers' Association to the thirty-two State associations, for after electing one-half of the executive council they will be allowed to turn in and help to elect the other half.

SEA OTTER HUNTERS.

Reported to Be Very Successful in Bering Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 11.—A private letter from Capt. Smaling of the schooner Theresa, now in the Bering Sea, gives news of the catch of sea otter hunters. The catch of the Theresa, which was made on Monday, a surprising discovery was made in the quiet village where she had made her home. Her husband, Charles Gass, who died July 21, was an old soldier, one of the most highly respected men in town, a devout church member and a completely honest citizen. After the death of the couple, a cave adjoining the little cottage in which they had resided for years was found to be connected with an abandoned gold mine, and in the underground chambers was found a lot of stolen property, including sets of harness sewed in gunny sacks and new axes and picks carefully wrapped to prevent their rusting.

There were also evidences that subterranean rooms had been used for storing beer, gambling and perhaps other unlawful purposes. It is now supposed that Gass and his wife were connected with the famous Quackenbush gang, several members of which are now serving penitentiary sentences for burglaries committed in various parts of Illinois, and that the wife, fearing detection, stole the death of her husband, took her life to escape punishment.

SWIFT STEAMER.

The Empress Makes a New Trans-Pacific Record.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 11.—News has just been received here that the record for the fastest trans-Pacific Ocean trip was made by the Royal Mail Steamer Empress of Japan, on her latest voyage from Vancouver to Yokohama. The time consumed was ten days, three hours and ten minutes. The distance covered was 4,720 miles.

Heretofore the quickest passage was made by the Pacific Mail steamer China, from San Francisco to Yokohama, in ten days, eleven hours and forty-eight minutes.

EIGHTY THOUSAND SHEEP.

A Big Flock to Be Driven From Oregon to Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 11.—A. J. Knollin, a live stock commission merchant of this city, has bought in Oregon 80,000 sheep, which are now being driven overland to Kansas, where they will be fed next winter and marketed the following spring. This immense herd has been divided into twelve bands, each of which is driven by eight men. They expect to reach Kansas in October.

THREE STORIES OF MURDEROUS FREZZY.

Two Negro Children Tortured and An Italian Ex-Convict Fatally Stabs Five of His Family.

Kill a Three-Year-Old Babe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 11.—An almost incredible story, illustrating the cruelty of children and the desire to inflict pain, comes from Grapeville, this State. Two negro children, aged 8 and 4, killed a companion aged 2 and a playmate. They first put the little one by burning him with an iron poker. To stop his screams they threw him to death. The parents of the children were at work in a field and did not discover what was taking place until they returned to the house in the evening.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A cable from Rome says an ex-convict named Nobili of the town of Vignanello, who had just completed a term of imprisonment for homicide, returned to his home and shortly afterward became involved in a quarrel with his family. He finally became so infuriated that he drew a knife, with which he cut and stabbed his wife, mother-in-law, sister-in-law, grandmother and cousin. The slaying of all of these was fatal. Nobili also slashed four neighbors who sought to restrain his murderous fury. He then made his escape.

THE POST-DISPATCH BICYCLE ORDINANCE.

Introduced by Delegate Judy in the House Last Night—Other Good Ordinances Introduced Later in the Session Through the General Demand for Sensible Regulations, Safety and the Encouragement of the Sport.

On the call of wards for the introduction of bills, Mr. Judy of the Second Ward said: "I introduce the following bill at the request of the Post-Dispatch."

An ordinance regulating the use of bicycles in the city of St. Louis, as follows:

Be it ordained by the Municipal Assembly of the city of St. Louis, as follows:

Sec. 1. That it shall hereafter be unlawful for any person to ride a bicycle or other like vehicle upon any street or public thoroughfare or in any public park within the city of St. Louis at a greater rate of speed than eight miles an hour.

Sec. 2. Any person who shall not slacken the speed of such bicycle in approaching any crosswalk which any person may be in the act of crossing, or in the act of approaching or leaving a street car, or shall ride such bicycle so as to cause same to come in collision with or strike any other object or person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 3. Any person riding a bicycle shall have a gong attached to same and carry a lighted lamp in front of bicycles at night.

Sec. 4. Any of the provisions of this ordinance are not to apply to bicycles ridden or used by children under the age of 12 years.

Sec. 5. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $15 nor more than $50 for each and every offense.

The bill passed its first reading.

Two ordinances, regulating the speed of bicycles and requiring lights and bells, were introduced in the House of Delegates at Tuesday night's meeting.

The first was sent to the clerk's desk by Delegate W. H. Judy, at the request of the Post-Dispatch.

The other bill was Mr. Weeke's measure, the same that was killed by being filed several months ago.

In the Council there is an overwhelming sentiment in favor of such an ordinance as Mr. Judy offered, and there is no doubt or question about its final passage into a law. In the Council every member favors such a law. In the House of Delegates four or five members are non-committal. But they are expected to vote for the ordinance.

The two bills read Tuesday night are similar in all but two of their provisions—speed of bicycles to eight miles an hour. This is in conformity with the general bicycle ordinance, which provides that vehicles shall not be driven at a speed exceeding eight miles an hour. Mr. Weeke's limit is ten miles an hour.

Mr. Judy provides for fines of from $15 to $50. Mr. Weeke from $25 to $100.

After the Post-Dispatch bill had been passed to final reading many of the delegates said such a bill was an absolute necessity.

Recent accidents have demonstrated the need of the law. In every case a collision between riders at night is due to the fact that neither wheel carried a light.

These accidents have been so numerous that so overwhelming a public sentiment in favor of an ordinance on the subject was created.

As soon as the danger was pointed out many riders began to carry lights. Two weeks ago a bicycle light was seldom seen on the streets at night. Now a large proportion of bicyclists carry them. That is why there have been no collisions or accidents.
